The baccalaureate sermon of the Logan County High School...

DEMANDS FACTS About What You Eat.

When it comes to food, demand to know the facts about what goes into your stomach.

Not only that it is pure but that you are not deceived in the description of its contents and condition.

But false statements of the merits of inferior food will never do much to build up a business.

Contrasted with this pretense, observe the care, method and skill in making Grape-Nuts.

The barley is soaked about one hour, then it is slowly warmed for some days and sprouted. Some food is being advertised in close imitation of the Grape-Nuts advertisement.

It had been misting at intervals all day, and the thickly strewn leaves that in the morning had drifted on aromatic blasts, first one way, then the other, were quiet now, and sudden.

"But a goose is better than nothing," he thought, "I can't go back to that landlord with nothing in my bag."

Suddenly he found himself up against a board fence with a swinging picket gate in it—the gate had disappeared. It was raining torrents now.

"I beg your pardon ma'am," said John Houston, "I—"

The history of celebrated institutions. Rev. Nicholas shared his services with a growing and well-known for the study of the Bible and the influence of the Bible in the lives of the people.

Cleared For Action. When the body is cleared for action, by Dr. King's New Life Pills, you can tell it by the bloom of health on the cheeks, the brightness of the eyes, the firmness of the flesh and muscles, the buoyancy of the mind.

THE END OF THE CHASE.

It was one of those dull, gray days of later autumn, which so often brings suddenly to its close a season of summer warmth and brightness.

John Houston emerged from the woods and stood absently leaning up on his gun as he contemplated the long stretch of meadow land before him.

He was tired of his friends, wearied to death of the club, worn to the verge of satiety with travel and unreconcilable to his bachelor apartments—their hollowness was worse than the hollowness of the woods.

Often in these days he was tempted to adopt a child. When Sammy Houston's wife died he had made a high bid for the tiny little boy—there was something in the child's eyes that made him think of what he had lost out of life—but Sammy wouldn't let the baby go.

"I know I'm poor," the young man said, "but I can take care of my boy. He's all I've got to remember her by."

He knew the men about town, the young men, all eyed him—longed to attain his position, his wealth and social standing. He hoped they would keep on doing so, and never know how small the whole thing seemed to him as he stood at the edge of the Mapleton wood this dark autumn afternoon.

It had been misting at intervals all day, and the thickly strewn leaves that in the morning had drifted on aromatic blasts, first one way, then the other, were quiet now, and sudden.

"But a goose is better than nothing," he thought, "I can't go back to that landlord with nothing in my bag."

Suddenly he found himself up against a board fence with a swinging picket gate in it—the gate had disappeared. It was raining torrents now.

"I beg your pardon ma'am," said John Houston, "I—"

"Oh!" she said, turning sharply, "are you the man who frightened my goose?"

John Houston did not hesitate. Without realizing it, he was thinking of the influence of the Bible in the lives of the people.

"Make yourself at home," said the woman, motioning toward the dining fire, "and I will have Sarah brew you a warm drink. You are chilled to the bone."

When she came back with steaming cup on a little tray he was standing before the fire. He had thrown aside his cap and heavy hunting jacket, and was holding in her hand a picture he had picked up from the table.

For a moment John Houston did not speak. There was a look on his face the men in Wall street would have been surprised to see.

"John!" She was breathless. "John, where did you come from?"

"I was afraid of you—even of you John—afraid of the house!"

John Houston rose and stood before the fire again. How handsome he looked—a man in a suit, at 50, so close shaven, he cried, impetuously.

"I have been all my life on a wild-goose chase," he cried impetuously. She rose, too, the old humorous tenderness on her face and in her eyes.

"But you have found your old gray goose at last," she said—Grace Adele Pierce in Los Angeles Times.

King Victor of Italy is very fond of fishing, but unfortunately he seldom succeeds in catching any fish, says the New York Herald.

"Well, neighbor, I see you haven't caught many," said the peasant, with a laugh, "yet I don't see why, for they are biting good today. I guess you are the same kind of a fisherman our king is."

"What do you mean?" asked King Victor, flushing furiously.

"Oh," replied the peasant, "we all know him. He thinks himself a great sportsman, but he's no good at fishing. I suppose the Lord thought it was enough to make him a king without making him at the same time a sportsman."

When you hear a girl has aspirations to be a great actress it is a sign she may get in the chorus if she is built that way.

A woman calls her youngster cute when he gouges out your eye with his finger, an expects you to be tickled to death over it.

It makes a man feel awful funny to have a girl's mother come into the room and act as if she thought the long hair on his coat was his own.

GUTHRIE LOSES AGAIN

THE WOODPECKERS DID SOME PECKING—HOW THEY WON

What They Play Today. Leavenworth at Guthrie. Sedalia at Oklahoma City. Topeka at Springfield.

Guthrie lost yesterday's game with Leavenworth by a score of 6 to 2. The Senators played in a streak of hard luck from start to finish.

The Woodpeckers did not put up a first game by any means. They simply played in better luck than the Senators. They can not boast of any fine work in any part of the game.

In the first play, little Harry Womack, then whom there are few faster pitchers in the Western association, had an off day and seemed to be out of form.

The game started off fairly well for the Senators. In the first inning they got two men on bases, second and third, and but for an error of the smallest nature, they would have scored.

At this juncture the Senators had a splendid chance to get even, when Hamilton tried to make a wild throw to the catcher, it was a boy's work and for Guthrie a great deal.

Hamilton pitched for Guthrie today. All the fans were there yesterday.

"Father" Hickey will be there today. Today it will be Guthrie's turn to catch.

Speed is a quality, but not efficiency. The Senators will be in the first division all right.

Speed will attempt to pitch for Leavenworth today. The Senators thought those fellows were cowards.

It's all off when "Father" Hickey gets on the diamond. The Woodpeckers will get their today, good and plenty.

Oklahoma City says we have the best team in the association. Oklahoma City comes tomorrow. Such a whipping as they'll get.

Guthrie would break a precedent if she won a Sunday game. Ulrich is a nice catcher. He isn't there with Quisenberry, however.

Pitcher Ashley looks like a bear pole and throws like a school boy. "Father" Hickey wasn't there, or the game might have been different.

The Woodpeckers didn't play a full yesterday. It was broad daylight robbery. In the eighth inning Leavenworth put in Speed. Ashley couldn't go it any longer.

Collins did fairly well at third, but made a bad throw to Barry which was costly. DeWay Henderson made several bad decisions yesterday as umpire. Jackson Egan.

Hamilton made a good two bagger yesterday which brought in the only runs Guthrie got. Umpire Owens was cringing yesterday, consequently could not be in the game. He leaves tonight for Joplin.

That Woodpecker Womack is a hot right fielder. He made an elegant catch in the cotton patch and made a double. President Sully writes that Guthrie will come out of the slump yet. He has great faith in the Senators.

Shumway may be a good player and a utility man, but he played horse on Guthrie. He didn't even so much as try. Ashley pitches only now. The Senators were off on batting or else they would have sent him to the bench in the first for that.

Little Womack is one of the best pitchers in the association. He had nothing yesterday, however. That is no sign of his inability being good or bad.
